Research Summary:

PhD. (High-level topic: AI in Bioinformatics) (In-progress): As part of my ongoing External PhD. program, our research aims to devise AI-driven novel solutions to problems in bioinformatics, especially in the areas of system biology, proteomics (especially prediction of protein-protein (PPI) and peptide-protein (PepPI) interactions) and inhibitor/ligand design using machine learning (ML) and deep learning (DL) algorithms covering an wide array of AI paradigms that include: Multi-layer Perceptron (MLPs), Graph Neural Networks, Transformers, State Space Models (such as Mamba), LLMs, Protein Language Modelling, Ensemble-based DL Models, Architecture Evolution through AutoML. Our work also provides novel insights into explainable AI both in domain agnostic and domain specific setting. Apart from contributing to core AI, we have also devised novel computational methods of PPI/PepPI Dataset constructions and algorithms for Feature Importance Ranking (FIR) with encouraging results.
